

Tailored Tabletop Exercises

People focused cyber resilience

Cyber incidents can challenge core organisational goals. QBE tailored tabletop exercises are collaboratively designed to focus on each organisations' unique needs and key cyber risk priorities - getting to the heart of what's at risk.

QBE tabletop exercises are flexibly designed and can be tailored to a leadership, technical or operational audience. Exercises are delivered virtually and take participants through a simulated cyber incident, focusing on financial, operational, technical and reputational factors that can impact core organisational objectives.

Being prepared for a cyber incident requires an understanding of evolving risks and awareness of key decisions and challenges that arise. QBE's comprehensive approach provides practical insights—from initial notification to full restoration—to help organisations prepare for, manage and recover from a cyber incident.

The design and delivery of the exercise includes the following steps:

- Scoping call to identify key priorities, timeline and participants from organisation
- 1-2 stakeholder interviews to ensure the exercise is tailored to organisational needs and incorporates key operations and systems
- Development and virtual delivery of a 2-hour tabletop exercise focusing on the operational, financial, insurance, technical and/or business impacts of a cyber incident, fully tailored for different needs
- 60-minute post exercise discussion providing high level observations and recommendations
