

Global Risk Solutions & Safety Source Productions Training Resource

Well trained employees show the value of training every time they engage with your customers, do the job right, take the time to work safely, and positively contribute to your bottom line. The investment made to train employees on safety protocols can help reduce risks in the workplace while keeping employees safe and engaged.

QBE Global Risk Solutions has partnered with Safety Source Productions, Inc., a leading provider of training courses, to offer best-in-class online training materials to our customers. The training programs are current, interesting, and focused to keep employees' attention and encourage retention of the key elements of the course.

Safety Source Productions, Inc. based in Southern California, has been producing quality training programs since the 1990's. Their experience and expertise allows them to produce training programs that are engaging, educational and effective. They utilize their network of subject matter experts to make videos that address safety concerns and procedures unique to each industry. They also offer complete "concept to completion" production services for those companies wanting a tailor-made video program.

Safety Source offers over 850 Safety Training Videos to meet the training needs of almost any industry or job description. Whether you need a basic Forklift Safety Video or a complete 40-hour HAZWOPER training program, they have you covered. Their Safety Videos comply with the latest regulations and are presented in a way that is both effective and easy to understand. These Safety Training Videos have been used by thousands of companies to train millions of workers worldwide.
